I- Text

Technology develops all the time. Scientists predict that in the next twenty years. People won't have just one PC at home. They will have several computers. What will they be like? Will they all be laptops? No, they won't. Some of them will be tiny and people will wear them on their clothes.

Computers will also do different things. They will help you to shop faster on the internet. In the future, you will show your laptop a picture of the thing you want to buy and the computer will find the right websites immediately. You will also be able to talk to your pc and it will understand your mood. When you are unhappy, it will play cheerful music, you won't need a mouse, a keyboard or a pen to communicate with your PC.
